The Best Places To Workation in a Post-Covid-19 World

Dubbed a 'workation', an increasing number of employed individuals now seek asylum in lavish hotel apartments.

Sep 03, 2020 | By Julia Roxan

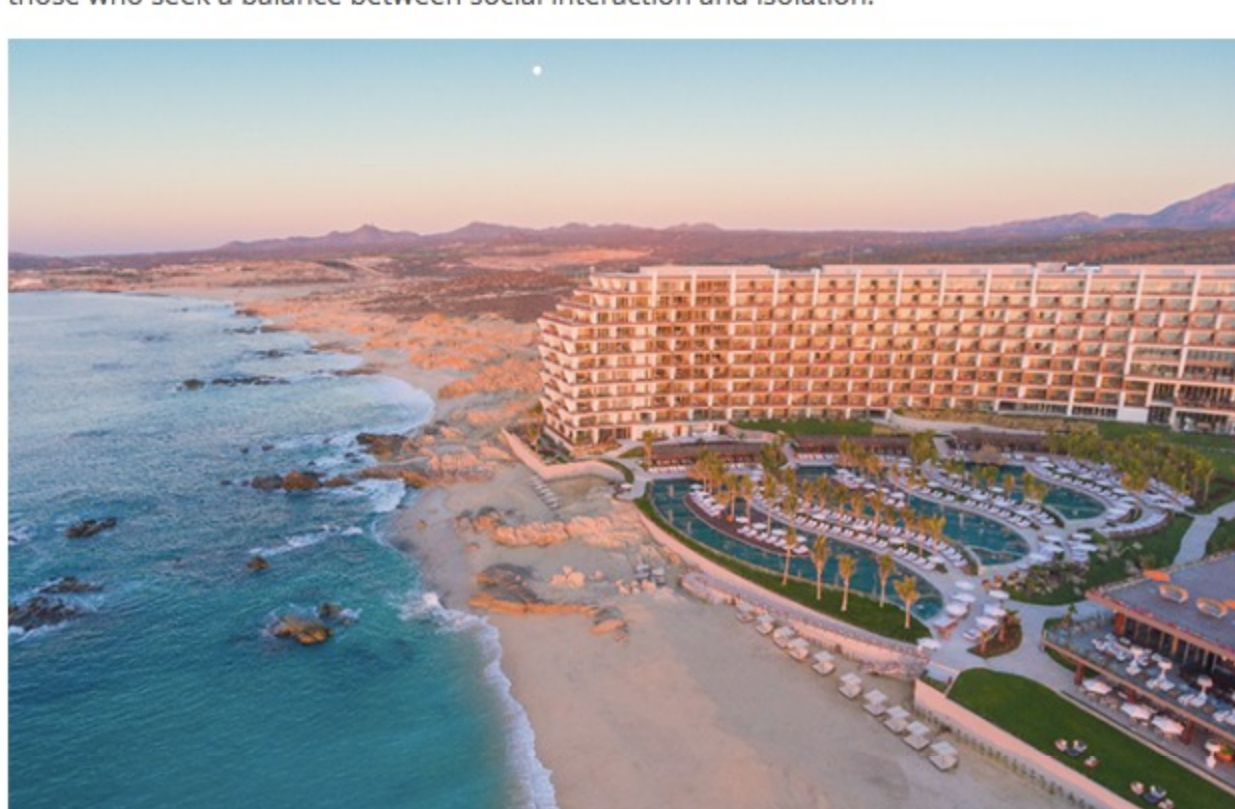

Working from home is all fun and games till you inevitably grow tired of its confinement. Covid-19 has thus brought new meaning to the phrase 'don't mix business with pleasure', as the safe spaces of our home now accommodate the weight of a career, with little-to-no room for the necessary moments of relaxation and escape. Despite the inevitability of daily labour being a means for survival, perhaps a change of scenery may do us some good. Dubbed a 'workation', an increasing number of employed individuals now seek asylum in lavish hotel apartments.

Rosewood London

Perhaps our biggest obstacle whilst working from home is finding a quiet space to spur our creativity and facilitate our undivided attention. Offering an array of private suites, Rosewood London promotes an unparalleled degree of seclusion and privacy, amidst the chaos of daily life. Its Manor House Suite, specifically showcases designated areas for work and play, with palatial bed-and-living spaces, a personal library, alongside a private. As the suite in the world to have its own postcode, the Manor House is worth an estimated $14K per night, and is upgradable, extending to create a grand seven-bedroom Grand Manor House wing – ideal for those who seek a balance between social interaction and isolation.

Grand Velas Los Cabos

Revered as Mexico's number 1 luxury resort, Grand Velas Los Cabos aims to provide city folk much-needed change of pace.
